DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference sign(s) not mentioned in the description: reference no. 31. A proposed drawing correction, corrected drawings, or amendment to the specification to add the reference sign(s) in the description, are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1- 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wang U.S. Patent No. 4,859,893.

An electric motor having a wound rotor (3) and a stator, the rotor (3) having a rotor core mounted on a shaft (2) a commutator (20) mounted on the shaft (2) adjacent one end of the rotor (3) core and rotor windings wound around the rotor core and connected to terminals (23) of the commutator (23), and a fan for generating a flow of cooling air, wherein the commutator (20) has a base and a plurality of commutator segments (22) fixed to the base, each segment having a brush contact portion and a terminal and the base having a support portion supporting the brush contact portion of the segments and a terminal portion (21) supporting the terminals (23) and wherein the fan has an integral inner collar (27) from which a plurality of fan blades (29) extend, the collar (27) being fitted to the terminal portion (23). The collar (27) is fixed to the terminal portion (21) by complementary formations including snap-fit detents. The commutator is a cylindrical type commutator. The terminals (23) of the commutator segment (22) are insulation displacing type terminal and the terminal portion (21) has a plurality of housings in which the terminal (23) and lead wires of the rotor winding are received. Also the complementary formation further include blade like projections (32) extending radially from the terminal portion (21) which engage slots in the collar to prevent circumferential movement of the collar about the terminal portion (21), wherein the terminal portion (21) has a plurality of housings accommodating the terminals and the snap-fit detent include at least one projection formed on each housing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 2834

6. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wang U.S. Patent No. 4,859,893.

Wang discloses the claimed invention except for the terminal portion and the support portion of the base are separate parts. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to separate the support portion and the base, since it has been held that constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Elichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179.
